

□

February 25, 2011

(WASHINGTON, D.C.) -- An independent study of Congressional voting records released today by National Journal – a non-partisan publication – found that U.S. Congressman Jason Altmire's (PA-04) voting record in 2010 places him 15 slots to the right of center in the U.S. House of Representatives for the second year in a row. Congressman Altmire's voting record in 2010 was more conservative than 54.2 percent of House Members' voting records. Congressman Altmire is also currently the only member of the House who has never missed a vote in Congress over the past four years.

National Journal evaluated 93 different key votes in the areas of economic, social and foreign policy to formulate its ratings. A chart showing National Journal's 2010 vote ratings for centrists in Congress is available here . For more information on Congressman Altmire's voting record, click here .